“Practical HR Solutions for the Real World”

Entrepreneurs start businesses to fill a void in the marketplace – not to deal with employee issues. But for small to mid-sized companies it can be difficult to juggle both. Questions arise such as: How do I measure employee performance? Where can I get quality training to develop my people? How do I address employee performance or behavior problems? Whatever your questions, HR Solutions by Design has the answers.

“I began HR Solutions by Design to provide small to mid-sized businesses with the same high level HR expertise enjoyed by the big companies, but at a price they can afford,” explains owner Cindy Beresh-Bryant. “Our business model means we can either be their HR department or augment their current team to help achieve their goals and objectives.”

Covering HR compliance, employee & labor relations, employee and leadership development, workforce planning and everything in between, HR Solutions by Design offers flexible, scalable, custom-engineered “products” to help businesses leverage their most valuable asset – their employees for a sustainable competitive advantage.

Considering she has worked more than twenty years for some of the best known organizations in the world, Cindy states, “My experience, combined with highly-trained, certified HR professionals, makes HR Solutions by Design uniquely qualified to provide small to mid-sized organizations with high level expertise at an affordable price”. We can take care of your employees, so you can take care of business.”
